Outside you'll see the neo-gothic facade of St Pancras where the Weasley's magical Ford Anglia takes off in Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets.

3 Piccadilly Circus

Where we see Harry, Hermione and Ron rushing through London's West after escaping from Bill and Fleurs wedding.

4 Reptile House, Ldn Zoo

London Zoo's Reptile House is where Harry first discovers his gift for talking with snakes in Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone.

5 Millennium Bridge

Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince opens with a dramatic sequence of London's Millennium Footbridge collapsing.

6 Charing Cross Road

The Leaky Cauldron pub and inn, which serves as a gateway between the non-wizarding world and Diagon Alley is on the Muggle street of Charing Cross Road.

7 Leadenhall Market

Used as Diagon Alley in Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone. The entrance to wizard's pub, the Leaky Cauldron, is in real life an optician in Bull's Head Passage.

8 Australia House

Scenes for Gringotts Wizarding Bank in Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone were filmed in the grand interior of Australia House on Strand in central London.

9 Westminster Station

Westminster Tube Station is one of the main locations used in Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix and had to be closed to the public for an entire day during filming.

10 Lambeth Bridge

It's on Lambeth Bridge that the Knight Bus has to squeeze between 2 oncoming double-decker buses in Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban.

11 House of MinaLima

Miraphora Mina and Eduardo Lima, the designers behind the movie artworks of Harry Potter.

12 Claremont Square

Tucked away on an unassuming street in Islington lies Claremont Square, the location of Sirius Black's familial residence; Number 12 Grimmauld Place.

13 Great Scotland Yard

It was on this corner, that Harry and Mr Weasley enter the phone box in Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix to descend into the Ministry of Magic.

14 Tower Bridge

In Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix Harry and the members of the order fly along the Thames on their broomsticks en route to 12 Grimauld Place.
